my sister Sue

who died in 2007

on the night of the last full moon of summer

Forward

The spark for all of the poems that have come out of me is always love, a desire to tell someone I care about something inexpressible and wonderful, something worth remembering. Even great sorrows and difficulties are worthy of poetry and wonderful – they are true paths to compassion, acceptance, understanding and gratitude.

The first poem describes something that happened one fall night in 2007 when I was mourning ... and dancing.

Sue,

The following poem is true because of what I saw in you, your courage and your love. It makes no difference whether you lived longer or I did.

You were and are my guide, conscious and unconscious, because of the courage, simple will, and deep love I recognize and honor in you.

Sue

I reached for you dancing Samba NGO out of the Congo my feet flying arms reaching and the blend of the music shaped me to reach up to you

Can't Stop Now
Eddie Shaw Chicago
I was dancing like crazy and you and the rest of the Universe were in my moving bones It felt so good
can't stop now

At the beginning I reached up for you then at the end Forbidden Forest first song one of the quiet parts I was twirling
arms up in a slow spin and there you were your face
and then your whole presence floating down

all of you
went through me something I knew
and I was dancing

Thank you

clear image

sharp lines
I looked into your eyes and saw so far in what I was seeing went on forever came around entered the back of my head and I saw with that seeing too
multiplied
and you looked into my eyes without wavering
true heart
my sister

it's all in what you believe

if you can believe that all in what you believe some people know and some don't

It's delicate, always shifting and the strongest thing you know

All of you in all of that

Experts say you're dying you have cancer in your lungs your skull your spine maybe your liver your lymph nodes whatever looking at pictures of pictures saying what they believe about these mysteries in you

Do you believe your will or them
or both
delicate shifting and absolute
there's a groove in you that you know is true a way past everything through all that is terrible and all that is wonderful

Summer 2007

But I sure do

I know it's childish
and I don't believe it
but I sure do wish it

my most hoped for prayer

not possible probably

but hoped for felt deep

like all the human cells
and all the microorganisms which are my greater part
are feeling
and hoping for this foolish wish to be true

like we're all
on the same
wave

I can imagine it
dream it

...

I die

*and there
they all are*

everyone
I most want to see

each one knowing how much I love them

and I'm there
with them

and there is no end

I know it's childish

Again

Sue
the second time
I saw you clearly
after you died
I was dancing

Again in my movements and in my thoughts I was reaching up to you and quietly, softly
gently

There you were

More than five years
have passed

You were farther
away
this time
but your light and love were even brighter
and I saw you

*saw the reality
you had become in my consciousness
in the distance more clearly*

It is weeks later now
I was awake long before the sun would come around
to this part of earth where the body
encompassing
my thoughts

still lives

I woke several hours ago and read about the physics that makes flight possible and then to try to sleep again I put the words aside

lay down again
and visualized
seeking to ungrasp
all thoughts
and meditate
to a state of blissful nothingness
and sleep

In the beginning soft images and revelations of the miracles I had been reading about and wanting to understand completely
in my muscles and nerves as well as my mind

*actual images flowing past me
with my existence as a simple mind floating in*

thoughts emotions visions created by my soft intentions of letting go

and experiencing knowledge and then no knowledge directly

folded into the substance of life and awareness of being awake

relaxed
and quiet

I saw the physics
of emotions

what causes
their lift and drag

no words
the truth simply flowed and swirled
around me

I began to pray
in a new way
understanding
love and anger
in a new way

and I moved through my prayer

and the way peacefulness appeared reminded me that I had seen you
again

*dancing is my most innocent
prayer
the easiest way I can become a child
escape experience
and just be alive

and I got out of bed silently and effortlessly dressed in warm clothes and came downstairs
to write this poem

for you
remembering how I had seen you
again

the moon
just past full greeted me
as I began to write

reflection of your light the tender pink glow of day's beginning

smiles at me
now

Thank you, Sue
for letting me see you
again

late spring

lovely healthy
young and blooming lilac tree

arrayed as only trees know how

in quiet elegance projecting holy place

and such beautiful peace

given to me and planted
in the early fall five and three quarter
years ago

after my sister died

friends at work
seeing how much
I was shaken how much
cut to my core

decided the answer was new green
life

life!

maybe someone somehow knew that all trees have always been
and will always be

holy for me

I love this young lilac loved it
at first sight

putting it here
at the corner of the house with someone I love was my own
perfect

service

young life

stout and strong enough to require
good planting

a good gift
to honor a living
friend

and help him
on his way
in faithful

remembrance

and reverence
for the much loved

much missed
reality
of the dead

the only saving answer
really

lovely

but I know

Oh Sue
I don't know where God is

where you are

Oh Sue
you are my bright star
when I dance

I know where the Great Universe
is

at least the small
bits I'm aware of all around me

and I know everything

is holy

But Oh Sue
I'm so happy
when I see my bright star

when I'm dancing

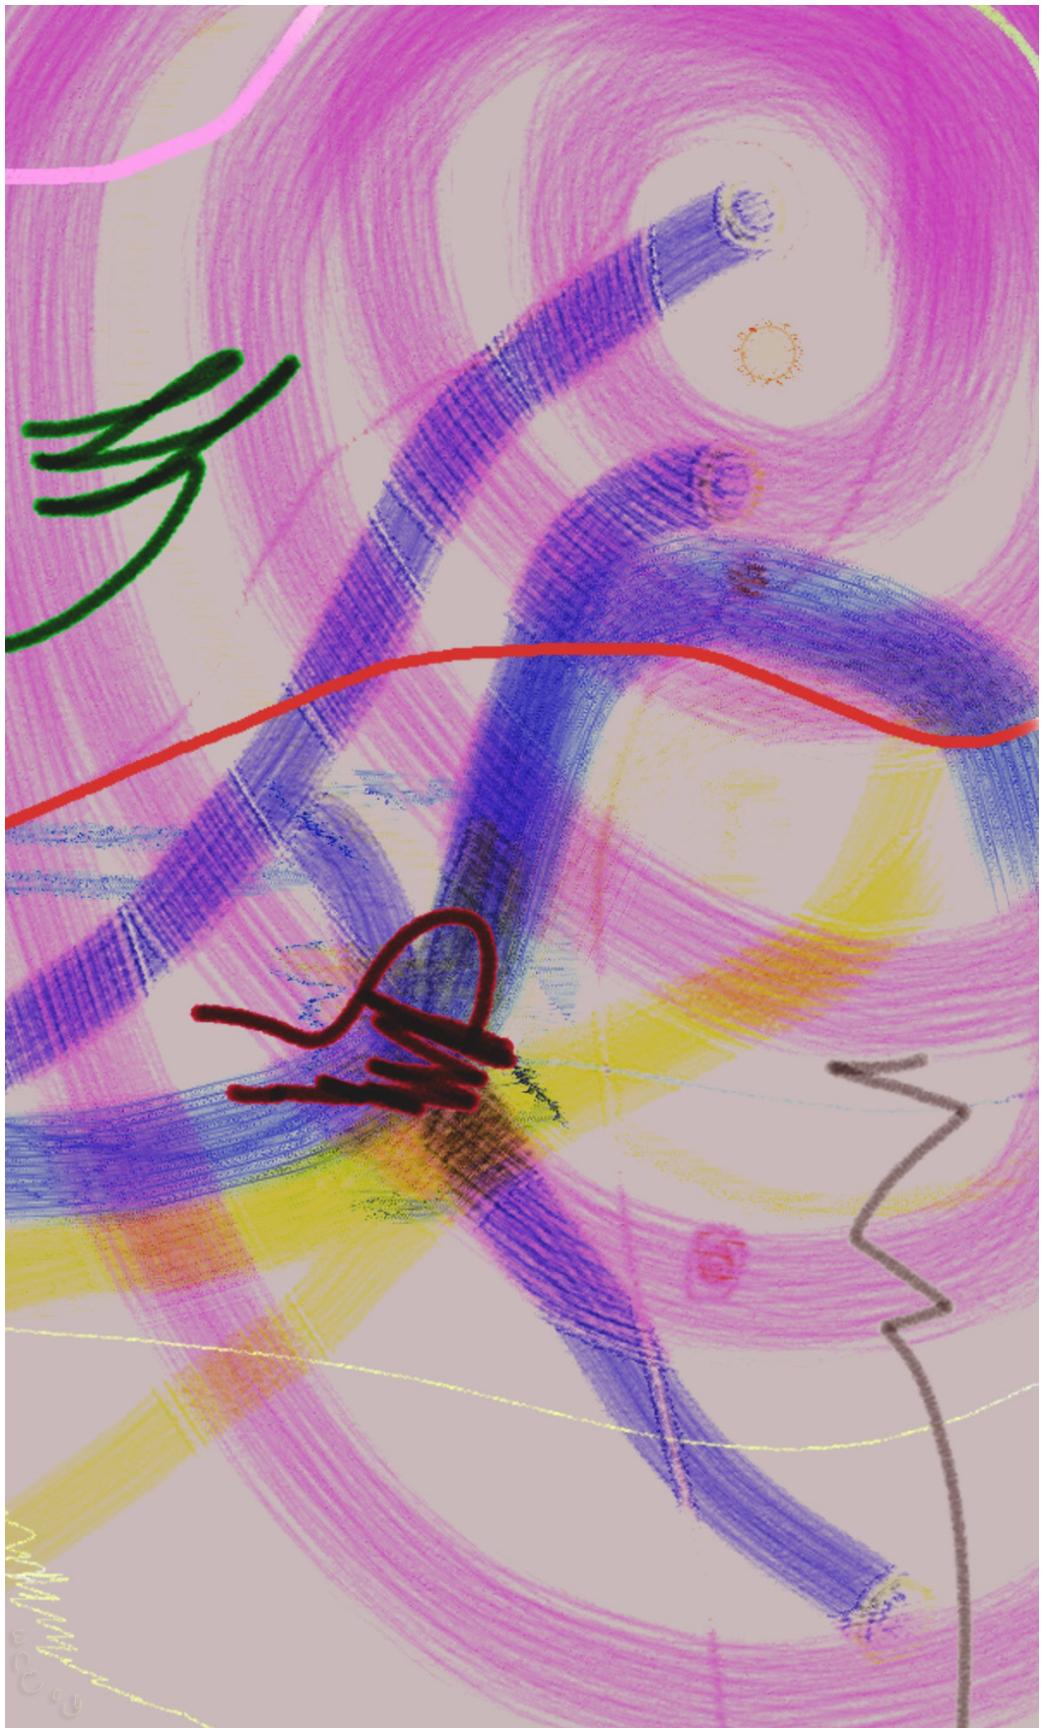

September 3

Oh Sue

Oh Sue
when I'm dying
if I'm conscious I'll be thinking of you my guide

Unconscious
bright filaments
which bind me
to you
weaving
our existence
singing peace
lifting me
up and out
and through
